HAYES refuses to speak of the political situation.

TOM SCOTT'S Texas and Pacific job seems to hang fire.

THE PROBABILITIES are that congress will adjourn itself on the joint rule.

AND now comes Michigan to join the electoral procession headed by Oregon.

IT GRANT is paving the way to empire, what position will Sittin' Cat occupy?

THE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE to investigate Florida have passed through Savannah. We trust they will take Cowgill by the ear.

COWGILL, of Oregon, has a brother in Brooklyn. We are at a loss which one to congratulate, but we rather think we will stick to the Oregon man.

THEY say that the polo professor has broken off his matrimonial engagement. We trust it is not too late to congratulate the young lady.

MORTON doesn't seem to admire the workings of the joint rules. And yet people at the Hot Springs insist that Morton is himself double-jointed.

THE gifted poet of the Burlington Hawkeye is strangely silent over the victory in Florida. Such omissions as this do not smack of republicanism.

A SUBSCRIBER sends us a postal card protesting against the too frequent use of the word "bulldoze." We promise to look into the matter, and if possible, have it remedied.

WE advise Morton to return to the Hot Springs, in order the more thoroughly to prepare himself for the worse than tropical warmth of which we read.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA radicals have gone through the form of electing a United States senator. His bogus credentials will probably be presented by Pinckney Morton.

ON account of political differences the gifted editor of the New York Herald will not be married this season. This is as it should be. We like to see a man stick to principle at all hazards.

ROBERTSON, of South Carolina, is a sensible man after all. He refuses to be elected to the United States senate by the radical rump legislature which assumes to represent the people of South Carolina.

THE BIBLE says we must forgive our enemies. But as there is no limit placed on the exercise of this quality, it will be 1999 before we forgive Grant, Chandler, Cameron & Co. In the mean time, it is well to await developments.

GRANT has only about eight hundred troops in Washington. Did it ever occur to him that it required more than this to intimidate Sittin' Bull, and that even then the aged savage was only partly concerned?

A GLANCE at the announcements of candidates for office, in the Savannah Morning News, will convince the most skeptical that office-seekers as well as book agents, escaped the fatal effects of the recent yellow fever epidemic in that city.

WITH one exception the burning of the Brooklyn theatre occasioned more loss of life than any similar accident of the kind except the burning of the Saragossa theatre in Spain, in 1778, when four hundred persons perished.

THE POET of the Burlington Hawkeye has not issued an epigram to the result in Oregon. Florida was duly celebrated in verse, and Florida is only a subordinate territory, so to speak. Why Oregon should be left out among the uncongenial icicles is a mystery to us.

THE FLORIDA congressional committee has arrived in Tallahassee and has settled down to work. They will endeavor to complete their labors before the Christmas holidays, though with such a sea of fraud to wade through, it is impossible to predict when they will finish.

Electoral Vote.

Washington Correspondence Baltimore Sun.

The messengers bearing the electoral vote of Maryland and West Virginia arrived here this morning and delivered into the hands of Mr. Ferry, the president of the senate, the electoral vote of those two states. For the record, we note that for the present in the vice president's room, in the rear of the senate chamber, but as so much depends now on the result a safe and secure place for the custody of all the electoral votes will soon be provided, where there can be no tampering with them, at least so far as the Tilden party are concerned.

ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 13, 1876.

ABLAZE!

Grandest Democratic Jubilee Ever Seen in Georgia.

A Mile of Joyous and Enthusiastic Citizens.

PATRIOTIC LETTERS AND AD-DRESSES.

The Illustrations, Transparencies, Procession, Etc., Etc.

The Empire State to the Front.

Last night witnessed the grandest and most brilliant display ever taken place in Georgia. In accordance with our knowledge where to come, although Atlanta enterprise inaugurated the movement, Atlanta cannot claim it, for thousands of citizens from other places were here to assist in swelling the joyous throng. It was an expression of delight by patriotic men after nearly sixteen years of political strife, when they at last saw the dawn of hope.

Grant, however, had been hunting for other vot

FROM SEVEN TO EIGHTHOUSAND

Every street that entered the city yesterday was densely crowded, and a still larger number came in the hotel, and by private conveyance.

The night by night was filled to their capacity, and the streets were occupied by corps who were being paraded by marching in review.

"The son of fraud and corruption."

On the other, "Our party is dead."

Free-mason's bank, representing a negro dropping his money in one end of a box, and one of the bank directors gathering it out of the other.

Bull-dog, bull-baiting a nigger over the fence.

In addition to the above, there were numerous other transparencies, leaving simply such inscriptions as the following:

"The Atlanta Constitution, it needs no amendment."

"Democracy is national liberty."

"Who will care for Hayes now."

"Free-masons, the orange of discord, succumbed to the son of fraud and corruption."

On the other, "Our party is dead."

Yester evening, the speaches presented by Martin Street was magnificent. Every window and verandah, for perhaps a half a mile, was filled with bodies, while below thousands of torches were seen burning in every direction to secure position in the line.

The Atlanta Daily Constitution

WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 13, 1876.

A HOPEFUL PROSPECT.

"Chatham," the Atlanta correspondent of the Savannah Morning News, writes to that journal in quite a hopeful manner of the legislature that is soon to assemble here. He predicts that a new element of retrenchment and economy will prevent any useless squandering of the time that should be devoted to wise legislation. If all the members come to their seats with the same views and purposes that the Hon. John H. James has adopted in reference to this matter, the session will be short, sharp and decided, and prove a source of great relief to our overburdened taxpayers. On this subject "Chatham" says:

"Speaking of retrenchment and reform, of which we hear so much and see so little, I am reminded that there will be a new element in the next legislature, from which so much is expected."

John H. James will probably be made chairman of the finance committee, and he will carefully consider, with his associates, the question of a wise retrenchment policy. Whatever may be said of Mr. James as a gubernatorial candidate, he will go to the legislature in the full confidence of his entire constituency. No man more fully comprehends the entire scope of the present financial pressure, and he will never be found absent from his seat, nor will he swell the expenses of the session by long speeches. His example, it is confidently expected, will do little to inspire other members with similar economical and patriotic motives. Let us hope that this will be the case."

GEORGE ALFRED TRENTHOLM.

The Charleston papers announce the death of this distinguished merchant and statesman. His father and grandfather were merchants in Charleston; but the father died before his son was fifteen years old, leaving his family without means. The son was, therefore, a self-made man. He began at the foot of the mercantile ladder, and his success was complete. His house had no superior in the south, and commercial trusts were showered upon him.

He was never a politician, and yet he was repeatedly elected to the legislature. During the war his supreme purpose was to advance the confederate cause. It was through his firm that the Confederacy, in its earlier days, obtained indispensable supplies. In July, 1864, he became secretary of the treasury of the Confederate states. He reluctantly accepted the position, but when he did accept it, he held on until after the evacuation of Richmond. In 1874 he was elected to the legislature from Charleston county. His labors in the session of 1874-75, coupled with the rigors of the season, led to his fatal illness. It may almost be said, says the News and Courier, that he died in the public service, for the term for which he was elected expired only a few weeks ago.

The value of the large democratic majority in the house is now manifest. But for it the conspirators could and would prevent by absence a quorum when the house proceeds, if compelled, to elect a president. The constitutional quorum consists of a member or members of two-thirds of the states. We have got 'em, and to spare.

Baffled by the democratic strength in the house, the republican senators seem to be casting about for some way to prevent a joint session altogether. They declare that they will not set foot inside the house, but they do not yet see how they can keep the house from taking a hand in the count uninformed. They seem to want to do the business in their little chamber without outside interference. Very nice plan, but it will not pan out well. The house will not be caught napping.

Neither will Mr. Tilden. A Washington correspondent says there is authority for the statement that Mr. Tilden regards the great trust that has been conferred on him as one not now to be abrogated or declined at the bidding of the conspirators, and he is determined to be inaugurated as president. He will do his duty, and trust to the people to sustain him. That he can rely on them is evidenced by the letters which are pouring in to democratic members of congress from all parts of the north.

GRASSHOPPERS. — We had them last year, and the local reporters graphically described the youthful but migratory insects as carpet-baggers from the Rocky Mountains. Commissioner James officially backed up the reporters for a season, and they were happy. But it was a mistake, and we call upon our readers to witness that we rose up at an early stage of the game to remark that it was. We now have the testimony of one of Georgia's most observant and successful farmers to the effect that the entire damage caused by the insects in the state did not exceed one hundred dollars. Commissioner James promptly confesses that he was mistaken, but the reporters — they were never known to confess in that way.

Prof. C. V. Riley, who is intimately acquainted with American bugs, explains the whole matter in the pages of the Scientific American. He shows that species, whether of plants or animals, have geographical limits. The destructive Rocky Mountain locust can come to perfection only in the high and dry regions of the northwest. He cannot permanently thrive south of the 44th parallel or east of the 100th meridian, because the weather does not agree with his constitution. He may transcend his range in an eccentric mood, but his children will be puny and short-lived. In no event can he or his descendants cross the Mississippi. Wind and weather forbid.

We have grasshoppers however in Georgia—all the states east of the big river have them. They are the American scorpion—not the western species. The former are giants by the side of the latter, the Rocky Mountain insects being strong in numbers, but not in size. Our grasshoppers are five times as large, but the western insects are a million times as many. Ours are harmless except in exceptional years, when they become numerous, acquire migrating habits and commit brief depredations of a light character. Last year was exceptional in spots. Georgia is no more liable to be visited by swarms of winged insects from abroad than she is by swarms of winged men. We say this in justice to our grasshoppers. They have been slyly slandered, and we trust they will not forget Prof. Riley who has so completely pronounced them innocent of the crimes rightly attributed to their Rocky Mountain cousins, whom they do not resemble in size, color or habits. It is needless to say that our locusts are the best behaved, the largest and the most elegant in the country.

SUPREME COURT.

DECISIONS RENDERED IN AT-LA-NA, GA., DEC. 13, 1876.

Hon. Hiram Warner, Chief Justice; Messrs. E. B. Ely and James Jackson, Judges—Exclusively Reported for the Constitution by Henry Jackson, Supreme Court Reporter.

Ordinary of Floyd county, for use, vs. Smith et al., Debt, from Floyd.

WARNER, C. J.

This was an action brought by the plaintiff against the defendants on a guardian's bond, alleging as a breach thereof, the mismanagement of the Ward's estate by the guardian, who was appointed in December, 1855.

The defendants pleaded the statute of limitations of 1860 in favor of the plaintiff's right.

The plaintiff admitted that he was not barred, because the defendant, as her guardian, had acted fraudulently and corruptly in the management of her estate, entrusted to him by her.

It is said that he deceived her by telling her in 1855, that he had invested in her name $1,500.00 in bank bonds in confidence, bonds, which he did not discover such deception until the year 1873.

On the trial of the case, the jury, under the charge of the court, found a verdict in favor of the defendants.

The plaintiff made a motion for a new trial, which was overruled by the court, and the plaintiff appealed to the supreme court.

The question in the case was whether the plaintiff's right to recover was bound by the act of 1860.

The plaintiff's right of action was clearly bound by that act, unless the evidence showed that the defendant had acted fraudulently and corruptly in the management of the trust estate.

The question is, was the defendant guilty of fraud or violence, or having possession of it, and thereby deprived the plaintiff of his right to sue?

The plaintiff's right of action was clearly bound by the act of 1860, and the proceedings authorized by it, cannot in any legal sense be considered as an imprisonment for debt.

If one obtains the possession of the personal property of another by fraud or violence, and the plaintiff becomes aware of it, and obtains the possession of the property, he is entitled to quietus, and to prevent the taking possession thereto by fraud or violence.

The plaintiff's right of action is bound by the act of 1860, and the like rule prevails between bailee and bailor.

Where the action is assumpsit for the value of goods converted by a tenant in common, after torily repudiated his co-tenant, and recovers the action before the bar of the statute of limitations, he is entitled to sue for the value of the goods, and the plaintiff is liable to pay the debt, and to collect and apply to the debt as far as they would go, and the accounts shown that their sum, it all collected, would not have paid the debt, and the balance due was neither paid nor remitted.

It is evident that the plaintiff's right of action is bound by the act of 1860, and the like rule prevails between bailee and bailor.

PRESS PERSONALS.

Geo. S. W. Hawkins, of the Covington Enterprise, was in the city last night.

H. W. J. Ham, of the Warrenton Clipper, was in the city last night holding a jubilee under his bower.

Col. Eugene Pythagoras Speer, of the Griffin News, was in the city last night rejoicing in a white necktie and navy-blue handkerchief.

Col. A. C. McCalla, of the Conyers Register, was in town last night, exuberant and effervescent.

Col. J. D. Alexander, of the Griffin News, was in the city last night. There is so much to do here that he has been obliged to get to entombed, but when he does it's a horse in a canterake."

Col. Freeman, of the Calhoun Times, was in the city full of the spirit of '76, rejoicing over the election of Tilden.

F. H. Richardson was so full of conference turkey that he stopped at Green's last night to publish it.

TOWN TOPICS.

Rev. J. E. Evans requests a full attendance of the members of Trinity church to prayer meeting to-night, as he has a message to deliver to them.

Furchout, Benedict & Co. had their building on Whitehall street brilliantly illuminated, and had a large transparency on which was a picture of Gen. Wade Hampton with appropriate motto.

There were more United States flags displayed in our city yesterday than any time since the war. 13th's election wakes up the old fire in our people.

Gen. Ben Hill has gone to congress, and Col. Sidney Dell being about to leave for Oregon, the "old flag" will soon cease to wave over hill and dale" in this locality.

F. Kingsford Oglesby, Esq., of Augusta, returned from up the State road yesterday morning, and left for home last night, carrying with him the picture of the lovely young lady in a sash and matronette to himself as she truly moved away. "Absent, but not forgotten."

During the recent cold spell, a young Whitehall street merchant went to the depot to bid his sweethearts good bye, as she left on a visit to Dalton. Just as the train started, he handed her a cake of camphor ice, said, "take this with you, it will keep a long time for you to eat." She took the camphor ice, but, not the blue ribbon with it.

Mr. S. S. Trumbull and brother, near East Point, of this county, killed four pigs, Georgia raised, recently, not quite nineteen months old, that weighed 1,64 pounds.

Sherrod Gay's jenny was in the procession, and so was Sherrod Gay himself.

There was a full delegation from Marietta and other towns on the State road.

The brass band from Marietta was highly complimented on the streets yesterday by our citizens.

The delegation from Jonesboro was the largest one town, and they all come in on the wagon road. The Central railroad by reducing half rates lost over five hundred dollars, so came from Griffin in private conveyances.

Hock and Ladd company was out full force. Cap. Johner gave the whole day yesterday to preparation, and he was as usual square to the mark. The tracks of this company was brilliantly illuminated, and there was a live rooster perched on a roost on the leaders.

Large number of people from on the Georgia road. Not less than twenty-five hundred people came to the city over the Georgia railroad yesterday on the various trains.

The delegations from along the Altvine were large and enthusiastic.

Several negroes in the torch-light procession last night. ***

DIXON'S ILLUMINATIONS.

That the republicans may be satisfied of the fact that the public opinion of the country is with them, we have confined show to men who were engaged on the southern side during the late war, we call attention to the magnificent mappe Dykeman's establishment No. 27 Whitehall street was illuminated. Dykeman came to this city since the war, was a federal officer in the war, and was with Sherman in the battle of Atlanta. He is a democrat, and is probably that "Tilden is elected," and so every northern man down here who does not expect to make something out of the government by being the other way. The war was better illuminated than Dykeman a last night, and we command him to our people as a trait to Tilden. ***

THE DAILY CONSTITUTION.

BOSTON, MASS., NOV. 21.

The editorial corps of the Griffin News died in the procession last night.

A Macon man who has never been chewed by a vulture now is not admitted into the first circles.

The only tittle that seems to have any influence over an Augusta editor is too much "monk's milk."

The Eatonton Messenger continues to be a good paper.

Savannah seems to be at a loss in selecting a man to represent her in the legislature. Col. B. B. Ferrill would just about fill the bill. His extensive acquaintance and popularity would enable him to be of vast benefit to Savannah interests.

In Atlanta, it was a question between May and Meyer, but as they were compelled to have a mayor they took Meyer—a mere technical choice.

Captain John F. Wheaton will be the next mayor of Savannah.

Captain John H. Steglin, of Savannah, is dead.

The Sunday Telegram, of Savannah, will be started on the 17th. It will be under the editorial control of Mr. B. H. Richardson, the city editor of the News.

A man named John McNulty, from Connecticut, was run over and killed by a train on the Atlantic and Gulf railroad near Quintana.

Ground-pine Jim is the name of a colored character in Macon.

An early county store that has not been burglarized is not considered worthy of patronage.

Watson, of the Macon Telegraph, has to hold up his pastasites going home at night in order to prevent greedy sows from attacking his calves.

John McLaughlin, of Savannah, has never gotten over his attack of typhus.

A little girl was seriously burned in August on Sunday morning.

A Macon negro raises and sells about five thousand pounds of pork, and has enough for home use.

Mr. O. C. Tillotson, of Lennox, Mass., died at the Globe hotel in Augusta on Monday night.

Augusta Constitutionalist: The body of Mr. Charles M. Pitt, arrived from the train at 10 P.M. yesterday afternoon, and was received by relatives and friends at the union depot. Mr. Pitt was the young man, who with a young friend, stood nobly at his post in Savannah when the yellow fever was at its height, and at last both succumbed to its ravages and died. So noble was the self-sacrifice in the performance of what they considered their duty to suffering humanity, with certain death staring them in the face, that even an enemy, if he had one, was compelled to accord them just praise. Some of the leading journals in the United States heard of their conduct and spoke in high terms of them. Mr. Pitt's funeral will take place at ten o'clock this morning.
